Dear Members

The ultimate event for the 2017 athletics season, the 2017 IAAF World Championships in London, Great Britain, will take place from 4 – 13 August 2017.

ASA will be entering a final team for the 2017 IAAF World Championships no later than 23 July 2017.

Before the final entry date, ASA will have to decide which of the 4 long jumpers, whom qualified , in the men’s category, on the A-Standard of the ASA Qualifying standards, will be entered to represent South Africa at the 2017 IAAF World Championships. According to the IAAF Rules for the competition, only 3 athletes can be entered per country in each event.

Furthermore, ASA will have to wait until 23 July 2017, when the IAAF will announce which relay teams qualified for the 2017 IAAF World Championships.

The only South African team that stand a chance to be selected to participate at the 2017 IAAF World Championships is the 4 x 100m Men’s’ Relay team, which are currently ranked no 7th in the world. Only the top 8 teams are invited by the IAAF to participate at the 2017 IAAF World Championships, along with the top 8 finishing teams of the IAAF World Relay Championships.

With the athletics season still in full swing in Europe, and with several South African Athletes still participating in the European circuit, there are still a few athletes that stand a chance to qualify for the final South African Team to the 2017 IAAF World Championships.
